

Amalia Batori
Director Sales
Robert Bosch LLC

Originally from Romania (from an area called Transilvania), I moved to the US with my husband about 20 years ago. For most of this time, I worked in the automotive industry with a brief stint in the aviation industry.

I graduated from Transilvania University in Romania with a Bachelor's Degree in Mechanical Engineering, followed by a Master's Degree in Industrial and Systems Engineering from the University of Michigan - Dearborn.

On the personal side, I have an 18 years old daughter who just graduated high school at the International Academy West in White Lake, and who will soon begin college at the University of Chicago studying Physical Sciences.

Outside family and work, I enjoy volunteering for SAE's A World in Motion (AWIM) program at the nearby elementary schools and has served on the SAE Detroit Section Board. I am a passionate supporter of women in STEM, being involved with organizations such as women@bosch group and the Center for Automotive Diversity, Inclusion & Advancement (CADIA).